ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

In a streaming delivery method, a streaming server collects text data, which is written from a user terminal, relating to a moving image content being streamed, superimposes the collected text data on the moving image content being streamed, and delivers the moving image content on which a plurality of the text data is superimposed to the user terminal.